The Sonic Pi Application

Once you have started the Sonic Pi app, you should see a simple application window with three panels:

• The Programming Panel. This is the main panel on the left hand side. This is where you will write your programs.

• The Output Panel. This is the small panel on the top right of the window. This is where you'll see information from your program as it runs. Information in here is good.

• The Error Panel. This is the small panel on the bottom right of the window. This is where you'll see errors from the program as it runs. Information in here is bad (but very useful).
